Zermatt, December 2010

Countdown to the winter season start on the 10th December 2010

CERVO Hotel & Restaurant, Zermatt: Full tilt into the 2nd winter season

Happy guests, 13 Gault Milliau points and the honor of the Swiss tourism prize “MILESTONE” – already in the first year, the new hotel and restaurant CERVO in Zermatt, has impressed with it’s outstanding service, and will be duly rewarded. At the same time, the second stage of the hotel building project could successfully be completed.

Meanwhile, 66 beds are available, an outdoor Whirlpool has been added to the private Wellness area of the five chalets and the restaurant now has space for 75 guests. The last preparations are currently being made for the season start on 10th December 2010. Seraina Mueller, Daniel F. Lauber and CERVO team are well prepared and highly motivated for the second winter season.

Guests are inspired by the style and hospitality

In December 2009, Seraina Mueller and Daniel F. Lauber celebrated becoming hosts of their own hotel and restaurant in a dream location with view of the Matterhorn. Already in the first year the CERVO got people talking. Satisfied guests praised the stylish and fashionable hotel on tripadvisor.com. As the word-of-mouth spread there was an immediate effect. Already in the summer guests were arriving due to these recommendations, and they were obviously very happy with the standard of comfort at the hotel and the quality of the cuisine at the CERVO restaurant. “Some guests, who were with us in July and August already booked for the coming winter season”, reports Daniel F. Lauber, which shows the success of the first summer season.

Food and drink for the body and soul

The hotel CERVO is well booked - the architectural merging of hunting lodge, alpine chalet with modern design touches, clearly hits the mark. Here in the CERVO restaurant it is not only hotel guests who are welcome, but the locals also, so you should reserve well ahead to avoid disappointment. The quality of the food is also held in high regard by professional food critics. Gault Millau raves about the CERVO as the “Shooting star” of the season. As owner Seraina Mueller beams: “, We are proud that with our food, we have shown ourselves as equals in the first season in the Gault Millau”.
