Zermatt, June 2016

Two podium finishes for the CERVO

The CERVO Mountain Boutique Resort in Zermatt celebrates two wins. It was awarded the Prix Bienvenu for the friendliest luxury hotel in Switzerland before hopping straight onto the next podium, taking third place in the "Design hotel" category at the inaugural Connoisseur Circle Hospitality Awards.

News of these two awards reached the CERVO's management team within the space of just a few days and was a real cause for celebration for the Mountain Boutique Resort, which won the 2016 Prix Bienvenu in the "Luxury hotel" category. This prize, which was awarded for the fourth time this year, is given to the friendliest hotels in Switzerland. "This is a great honour for us," says Daniel F. Lauber, founder of the CERVO. "The Prix Bienvenu has special significance for us as it is awarded on the basis of guest ratings."

The "Bienvenu" bronze figurine will no doubt inspire the team behind the CERVO's success to continue delivering top service in future. Speaking of "bronze" and "success", this brings us on to the next highlight for the hotel in Zermatt. Barely a week after winning the Prix Bienvenu, the CERVO gained yet another accolade, this time in the form of third place in the "Design hotel" category at the Connoisseur Circle Hospitality Awards, which made their debut this year. The renowned magazine Connoisseur Circle has more than 400 respected hotel testers deployed all over the world.
